

"What do you wish most?"
asked the boy.

"That snow came in flavours"
said the mole.

Can you think of something that if it came 'differently', like snow in various flavours, it would make the world a better place?

Maybe you could replicate the conversation you are having like the illustration above. Sometimes simple line drawings, only using a pencil or pen, are the most effective.